

DESCRIPTION

Matcha originated in ancient China (200-400 AD), the tea leaves were first fixing (kill-green / de-enzyme) and then dried, and then milled into powder with natural stones.

The matcha stone mill is made of granite that is cut in one piece. After the initial grinding process, no stone powder or slag is lost during use, which ensures the safety and cleanliness of the matcha tea.

Since the stone mill grinds the tea leaves into matcha powder by its own weight, the larger the size of the stone mill, the finer the particle size of the ground matcha, and the better the quality of the matcha.

ADVANTAGE
